

Laws of the Game

Revised As Of:

October 5, 2022

Law 1: Object of the Game

Eliminate the players from the opposite team by hitting them with a ball.

The first team that eliminates all the opposing players, or has the most players on the floor when game time expires, will be declared the winner.

Law 2: Field of Play

Matches will be played in the David Tuckey Gym, Dance Studio / East Gym, Education Gym, and the Main Gym of the Van Vliet Centre.

There will be appropriate separation between courts.

Players must remain on their side of the court at all times.

Sidelines will be defined;

If not defined, the back of the gym is considered the back of the field of play;

A centre line, separating the two teams, will be defined;

A bench area will be defined for teams. Players not currently engaged in the game must remain on their bench.

Law 3: The Number of Players

There will be no more than 10 players on the court per team at any given time. Of these 10 players, a maximum 7 of one gender is permitted.

Teams may play with as few players as they wish.

Substitutions can be made prior to the start of a game. Subbed players must be on the roster and the player who is being replaced cannot play for that game set. No subbing will be allowed once a game has started.

Law 4: The Dodgeballs

There will be 6 dodgeballs in play at all times.

Dodgeballs will be:

- Spherical
- Of a diameter of not more than 6.3 inches
- Be made of foam with a plastic coat

Law 5: The Referees

Each match is controlled by a maximum of two head referees, who have full authority to enforce the Laws of the Game in connection with the match to which they have been appointed.

Up to eight assistant referees may be appointed, whose duties the head referee(s) will designate.

Law 6: The Duration of the Match

A match will consist of 3 or 5 games.

The team to win the most games will win the match.

During the Round Robin portion of the tournament, teams must play all 3 games in a match.

During the Playoffs portion of the tournament, teams will only play until a winner is decided. Playoff matches will be 5 games in length, or until a winner is determined.

Games shall be 5 minutes in length or until one team has no players left on the court. At the end of 5 minutes, the team that has the most players remaining wins the game.

If two teams are tied for remaining players, at the end of 5 minutes, a special overtime game will take place. Each team will be allowed one player on the court. The player chosen must have been playing in the previous game. Five dodgeballs will be placed on the centre line. The team to register the first elimination will win the game. If neither player has been eliminated after one minute of play, another player from each team will be added to the court. They must touch the back of court before they can start playing. A new player will be added in the same way every thirty seconds until one player from either team is eliminated. Again, the team to register the first elimination will win the game.

Law 7: The Start of Play

The first game must begin within 10 minutes after the scheduled start of the match. If a team is not ready by this time, they forfeit the match.

Games will begin with the balls split approximately evenly along the centre line.

All players choosing to run to retrieve balls will be lying on their stomachs, on their respective halves of the court, with all body parts behind the back line of play.

If there is no defined back line of play, both feet of all players must be touching the back wall. Players' chests must be touching the floor.

The game will start from a signal by the referee. At the start of the game, players from both teams will attempt to retrieve balls from the designated line.

Players cannot grab the ball, they must swat the ball away from the line.

Before the ball can be propelled in an attempt to eliminate a player, the player who successfully retrieved the ball from the center line must touch it to the back line.

After 30 seconds of play all balls are considered to be live, regardless of lack of initial activation.

Law 8: Game Play

Once the balls are in play, players can then propel balls in an attempt to eliminate other players.

Players that are eliminated must leave the court, proceed to the bench area and sit down. Once a player has been eliminated they cannot, under any circumstances, re-enter the game.

There will be a zero tolerance policy for cheating. Any players caught cheating will be removed from the game for the remainder of that match.

Both teams will be responsible for keeping the play moving. There must be deliberate action on both teams to have balls crossing the centerline.

If a player is holding a ball for more than 10 seconds, referees may instruct the player to roll the ball to the other team. Being called to do this multiple times will result in the referee removing the player from the court.

Referees will give a warning countdown if they believe players are complicit in holding the ball excessively. Throwing a ball after being told to roll it can result in the player being removed from the match, as well as in the incident of it hitting another player, the stricken player will be ruled safe.

All activity during matches should be carried out with the intention of achieving the object of the game. Any activity deemed by the referee as intentionally disrupting gameplay will result in a penalty to the team or player. This behaviour is included but not limited to purposely throwing the ball without intent of hitting a player, or withholding balls from the opposing team.

Law 9: The Method of Elimination

An elimination occurs when any ball that has been propelled by a live player in the course of the current game, hits the body of another live player in the same game, while the ball is considered to be “live”.

A ball in a player’s hand is considered to be an extension of their body. Shoes, clothing and hair count as part of a player’s body as well. Therefore if a live ball were to hit an extension of a player’s body, the stricken player will be eliminated.

A ball is considered live from the time it is propelled by a live player until the time it touches the ground, or comes to a complete stop (at the referee’s discretion).

Players are considered live until they have been eliminated.

All balls are considered dead when time expires.

Balls mid-air when time expires are considered to be dead as well.

Players are eliminated if they come into contact with the center line of the court. Repeated violations of marked sideline boundaries will result in an elimination at the referee’s discretion.

Coming into physical contact with ANY player on the opposing team will result in elimination from the current match and further consequences.

Law 10: Sportsmanship

Above all else, a player should maintain the highest levels of sportsmanship and camaraderie to all other players during the duration of the Tournament.

Any action, by a player or team, deemed by the referee or Tournament Organizers to be outside the scope of fair play, may result in a penalty to that player or team. Penalties can include but are not limited to: removal of a player in a game, suspension of players from a roster, or elimination of a team from the tournament without a refund.

To file a formal complaint regarding the sportsmanship of a player or team, players must email campuscup@su.ualberta.ca with information regarding the player/team in question, the time and opposing team of the game in which the incident took place, details of the incident describing the exact unsportsmanlike behaviour, witnesses and referees, and any additional information. The Tournament Organizers will follow up on any complaints as they see fit.

Law 11: Other Considerations

The captain is the only player allowed to converse with the referee(s).

Players who are under the influence of mind-altering substances will not be allowed to play.

When a ball lands outside of the defined area of play, it is to be placed on the outside bounds of the court, nearest to the location it left.

Players of a team who are not playing, or are eliminated in the current match, who interfere with balls during game play will have their team penalized for cheating. This will be at the referees' discretion, and can range from a warning to being disqualified.

Arguing or fighting with any referee is not allowed. If a team has a concern with a referee or a call, Team Captains may approach the referee when appropriate or comment on the game sheet. Other players are not to approach referees.
