Response to Gateway opinion article by Andrew Jeffrey

As the Chief Returning Officer of the Students' Union, I both agree and disagree with Mr. Jeffrey's article. I am incredibly pleased to see such an advocate of informed voting; however, I do have a problem with the argument. My principle criticism is that Mr. Jeffrey is situating the blame for the lack of candidate information on the Students' Union.

I do see how a common student can construe this as a fault of the elections office, yet the truth is that this responsibility falls on the candidate to provide suitable information.

Bylaw 2000 (the document pertaining to the governing of Students' Union elections) has provisions to empower students in their campaigning efforts by picking up the bill on expenses such as posters, banners, et cetera. With this in mind, the candidate can waive the right to use these options and choose not to campaign at all. Out of all of the candidates, only two provided the elections office with autobiographical sketches for the SU website. This is no criticism of the candidates, as historically there is little fuss and campaign fervor over by-elections.

Throughout the election days I answered various emails with the same questions asked by Mr. Jeffrey, and I responded to all of them in the same way; if you feel that the lack of information does not instill confidence in your faculties candidate, please exercise your right to vote for none of the above, as it is as valid a choice as any.

Re: Report to Council

Fees etc.

Over the next week I'm involved in at least a couple of meetings regarding fees, in particular Wednesday, October 27, 2010 with an Associate Registrar to talk about fee assessment clarification on Bear Tracks.

Sustainability Audit Meeting

Met with this group on Wednesday, October 20, 2010 to go over revised sections (on the building, food, and paper products) and confirm the formatting for the rest of the document. This went very well—we've hammered out our ideal format and are just working on tightening up the content.

SFAIC Awards Integration Meeting

Had a meeting with the VP Academic, the General Manager, Senior Manager of Student Services, and Manager of SFAIC to discuss integration of the awards program into SFAIC. They're on their way developing a game plan and possibly looking to hire a student to serve as an "Awards Coordinator" role. More information will be provided to the Grant Allocation Committee

Grant Allocation Committee Meeting

The next meeting of the Grant Allocation Committee is on October 28, 2010 at 5:00PM in the Lower Level Meeting Room.

Personal Academic Stuff

I have an ECON 385 midterm on Monday, October 25, 2010 at 1PM (shout out to Petros, who also is in the same class). Also, other projects for another class will take up a bit of time this week.

Yours,
Zach
